ANGELS UNAWARE

A few years ago I was returning home to Oklahoma City after visiting my parents. For the past month I had been suffering from sciatica in my right hip and leg. The pain had reached the point that I could hardly move without terrible pain.

I had just crossed over into Oklahoma from Kansas and was approaching a bridge when the right rear tire began to come apart. After crossing the bridge safely, I quickly pulled the car over to the side of the road realizing the tire was completely destroyed.

I opened the door and as I tried to get out of the car that terrible pain that comes with sciatica went through my leg like a hot poker. I eased back into the car and tried to catch my breath from the tremendous pain and at the same time realizing that I would not be able to change the tire.

As I looked around the landscape my anxiety began to grow. There were no farmhouses in sight; nothing but open highway and it was starting to get late. Sometimes the only way out of a situation is through. Somehow I was going to have to change that tire and bear the pain. Once again I opened the door and as I tried to pull my legs around the pain hit me again and drove my back into the car.

As I sat there contemplating what to do, I thought of the saying that when all you have is a prayer, a prayer is all you need. I looked up and in my rear view mirror there was a truck pulling in behind me. Two men got out and I could see from their uniforms that they were from the state highway department. I rolled down my window and they asked if they could help me. I quickly told them the situation and gave them the keys to the trunk. They had the tire changed in no time and I was on my way. Nice people doing nice things, they still exist.

If You Keep God in Sight

When your hopes and dreams are shattered
And cause you grief and pain,
Do not despair but start anew
Your cherished goals to gain.
Do not lose faith within yourself
If failure comes your way,
But battle on with head held high
You'll find a brighter day.

Just as the sunshine follows rain
And daylight follows night,
Your hopes and dreams are not in vain
If you keep God in sight

Humor from Heaven

A tourist at the Sea of Galilee wanted to go sightseeing and found an idle boatman who promised to show him all the important points. "Even where Jesus walked on the water?" the tourist asked
"Of course."
"How much?"
"Two hundred dollars."
The tourist replied, "Now I know why he walked."

One of the things that has helped me as much as any other is not how long I am going to live but how much I can do while living.

George Washington Carver

What I do, you cannot do. What you do, I cannot do. But together we are doing something beautiful for God.
